The design is made up of a clear four-panel guide for students. The top-left panel focuses on critical thinking by showing a student using a magnifying glass to "Spot Fakes & Lies" in a news article, while the top-right panel shows the concept of security represented by a shield/badge with a padlock that symbolizes how to "Protect Yourself Online" on a mobile device. The bottom-left panel represents social responsibility by showing a diverse group of students "Kind & Responsible" by helping to block out the dark shadow of cyberbullying from behind them. Lastly, the bottom-right panel contains glowing star-footprints leading to the phrase "Manage Your Footprint" as a way to encourage all the students to build a good reputation for themselves.

One interesting part about creating the poster was what I had to do to coordinate the various characters in all four panels together. Each character must have different, but similar poses & expressions in order to effectively convey their message separately, for example, analytical/critical thinking in panel one vs. positive or helping social interaction in panel three.

However, all of this needed to be done in a way that was visually cohesive and that created a unified and appealing look for the entire project. I had to invest considerable time in thinking through how to incorporate the different human figures with the dense and modern iconographical elements.